Notice of Fee Increase on January 1, 2003

If a reply to a "Notice of Allowance and Fee(s) Due" is filed in the Office on or after January 1, 2003, then the amount due will be higher than that set forth in the "Notice of Allowance and Fee(s) Due" since there will be an increase in fees effective on January 1, 2003. See Revision of Patent and Trademark Fees for Fiscal Year 2003; Final Rule, 67 Fed. Reg. 70847, 70849 (November 27, 2002).

The current fee schedule is accessible from: <http://www.uspto.gov/main/howtofees.htm>.

If the issue fee paid is the amount shown on the "Notice of Allowance and Fee(s) Due," but not the correct amount in view of the fee increase, a "Notice to Pay Balance of Issue Fee" will be mailed to applicant. In order to avoid processing delays associated with mailing of a "Notice to Pay Balance of Issue Fee," if the response to the Notice of Allowance and Fee(s) due form is to be filed on or after January 1, 2003 (or mailed with a certificate of mailing on or after January 1, 2003), the issue fee paid should be the fee that is required at the time the fee is paid. If the issue fee was previously paid, and the response to the "Notice of Allowance and Fee(s) Due" includes a request to apply a previously-paid issue fee to the issue fee now due, then the difference between the issue fee amount at the time the response is filed and the previously paid issue fee should be paid. See Manual of Patent Examining Procedure, Section 1308.01 (Eighth Edition, August 2001).

Questions relating to issue and publication fee payments should be directed to the Customer Service Center of the Office of Patent Publication at (703) 305-8283.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The prior art(s) fail to teach and/or suggest as follows:

- a) A microelectronic assembly comprising:
 - i) a dielectric element having an upwardly-facing first surface and a downwardly-facing second surface and having terminals exposed at the second surface;
a first microelectronic element overlying the first surface of the dielectric element;
and
a second microelectronic element overlying the first microelectronic element, the first and second microelectronic elements being electrically connected with the terminals, the terminals being movable with respect to the first microelectronic element, the assembly having a thickness above the terminals of less than 1.2 mm as set forth in claim 1.
 - ii) a dielectric element having a first surface, a second surface opposite the first surface and a plurality of electrically conductive terminals exposed on the second surface;
a first microelectronic element having a face surface, a back surface, and a plurality of first contacts exposed on the face surface, wherein the first microelectronic element is disposed over the dielectric element so that the face surface faces toward the dielectric element;

a plurality of first elongated leads, at least some of the first contacts being electrically connected with at least some of the terminals on the dielectric element through the first elongated leads;

a second microelectronic element having a top surface, a bottom surface, and a plurality of second contacts exposed on the top surface, the second microelectronic element being disposed over the first microelectronic element so that the top surface faces away from the dielectric element, and the bottom surface of the second of the second microelectronic element confronts the back surface of the first microelectronic element confronts the back surface of the first microelectronic element; and a plurality of second elongated leads, at least, at least some of the second contacts being electrically connected with at least some of the terminals on the dielectric element through the second elongated leads, wherein at least some of the terminals are movable with respect to the first surface as set forth in claim 9.

iii) first and second microelectronic elements, each the microelectronic element having a face surface, a back surface and opposite first and second edges extending between the face and back surfaces of such element, the second microelectronic element overlying the first microelectronic element with the face surface of the second microelectronic element confronting a surface of the microelectronic element face surface adjacent the first edge of the second microelectronic element projects in beyond the first microelectronic element and so that the edge of the second microelectronic
